

Anastacia's Beer Trip Chicago Mix Six

Geisterzug

Gose

Freigeist Bierkultur - Germany

5% ABV. Bottles, draft. Rotating availability.

A quirky version of the nearly-extinct traditional sour beer of Leipzig, Geisterzug "Ghost Train" spruced gose is unusually complex, funky, and full-bodied.

Saison Farmhouse Ale

(Island Reserve Series)

Cisco Brewers - Nantucket, MA

6% ABV. Bottles. Brewed once.

Saison Farmhouse was fun to brew and is fun to drink. Buckwheat, oats, and rye fermented with Brettanomyces and a Saison yeast in a 50 hectoliter French oak cask. Herbs and spices grown here at the brewery replaced most of the hops. On it's way into package it was treated to a host of microflora to create additional character over time.

Plus tot L'etat

Farmhouse Ale

Saint Somewhere/Prairie Collab

Brewed at Saint Somewhere - Tarpon Springs, FL

6.5% ABV. Bottles. Brewed once.

Brewed in collaboration with our friends at Prairie Artisan Ales in Oklahoma. A rustic Farmhouse Ale brewed with persimmon and elder flowers with a bit of Florida terroir.

Kama Citra

Brown Ale

Beer Here. Brewed at De Proef - Belgium

7% ABV. Bottles, draft. Rotating availability.

As the love child from British specialty malts and American Citra hops, this beer exposes itself with a firm body layered with complex malt flavors and in-your-face citrusy hops.

Fantastic Voyage

Milk Stout brewed w/coconut

Perennial Artisan Ales - St. Louis, MO

8.8% ABV. Bottles, draft. Brewed once.

Bottled 04/2013.

Fantastic Voyage is a harmonic mélange of coconut (over 100lbs of coconut per batch) and Imperial Milk Stout brought to us by brewer, Jim Leabig. Loads of coconut, lactose and black malt balance each other to provide flavors reminiscent of chocolate covered coconut with a finish smooth like silk sheets. Best enjoyed while listening to slow jams by candlelight.

Baltic Porter

(Big Beer Series)

Smuttynose - Portsmouth, NH

9.24% ABV. Bottles, draft. Winter seasonal.

Indigenous to northern Europe, Baltic Porters historically stem from the shipping of British porters to the Russian hinterland. Unlike their British cousins, Baltic Porters are often brewed with lager yeast, which is the tradition we follow. Big & bold, with flavors of coffee, dark fruit & raisins, this black beer is smooth as a chocolate swirl.

Howdy do, beerists.

I just got some creme brûlée and pumking from southern tier. I put on the pumpkin episode to listen to while I drank a glass of pumking and heard Mike mention having pumking with a shot of creme brûlée in it. I immediately went and got the bottle of creme brûlée and added some to my glass. It was delicious . To me those two beers really complimented each other. Which brings me to my question, are there any beers that you like to mix that work really well together? The only other beer I've mixed together was 120 minute and world wide stout from dogfish head which I think put me over the edge because I can't remember what it tasted like. Keep on drinking, keep on podcasting.

Hey boozehounds,

Your podcasts have been entertaining me at work for the last couple of weeks... thank god I have headphones.. haha. Really though, I appreciate hearing your review of beers. It makes me want to visit and revisit a few. I happen to be a Denver-ite, brewery bum, and would love to grab a beer with you guys if you need any recommendations around the area or would want to swap some beers.

Cheers,

iTunes Shouts

J2 Brew warns people to not listen to this podcast in public, as doing so will induce outbursts of laughter, explosive snorts, and unquestionable thirst for beer.

TRECK 93 said a lot of great things about us. It was a long, and well-written review that was very complimentary of not only our descriptions, but also our humor. He closed by saying "All in all, this is not only a great podcast when compared to other food reviewing podcasts, but a fantastic podcast when compared to all genres.

Fignuts NY says that we're consistently one of the funniest and most entertaining podcasts out there, and he hopes that Rubio never gets deported.
